Sensational looks and sound, simple connection

Tired of your music system's muddy, insipid sound and dull looks? Give your eyes and ears a treat with two dazzling new all-in-one audio systems from Sony.

The CMT-BT80WB and CMT-BT60B are designed to make an instant impression in any living space. Stealthy, super-slim styling is matched with crisp, room filling sound – whether you're listening to CD, DAB, FMradio or enjoying your personal digital music collection.

Forget about fiddly pairing and access codes. Just touch your Sony Xperia or NFC-enabled smartphone or tablet for a moment to instantly establish a Bluetooth wireless connection. Then stream pristine, room-filling sound via Bluetooth from your mobile for everyone to enjoy.

Want to enjoy wireless music that's even clearer and more satisfying? The CMT-BT80WB and BT60B can play high-quality music with AAC and apt-X codec over Bluetooth for sparkling sound.

It's easier than ever to liberate your precious music library. On-board Wi-Fi (CMT-BT80WB only) lets you stream music straight from PCs and servers on your home wireless network via DLNA. There's also a USB connection for direct hook-ups for playback (CMT-BT80WB) and charging the battery (CMT-BT60B) of your iPad, iPhone or iPod.

Unique to Sony, Magnetic Fluid speakers use an advanced ferrofluid developed for the NASA space programme for richly detailed, full range sound that really shines. Together with powerful S-Master Amplifier technology by Sony, you'll experience exhilarating clarity and depth from any sound source.

The new CMT-BT80WB and CMT-BT60B audio systems by Sony are available in Europe from May 2013.
